

-Wiki Shared Knowledge

Public section can be read anonymously. Editing requires logging in. You can read more about the Wiki from FAQ.

If you have rights to the private section, link private area is available in the left after logging in.

Further definitions of validation rules given by the validator can be found at Support section. XMLdation validation service links to these pages from validation reports.

Editing and adding is allowed and highly recommended but due to our high quality requirements login is required. See Creating Content

Users of XMLdation's service are assigned login credentials automatically. The credentials used to access our production environment work in Wiki as well.

You can give more information about yourself in "My page section" (see link left corner)

Search tool is available in the upper right corner.

In any situation you may need support or help, please contact: support (at) xmlation.com

Due to our partners' needs, some pages can differ depending on user rights.

XMLdation's homepage is www.xmlation.com
